Playlist, Via Carlo Poma 18 - Milan

Galleria Giampaolo Abbondio is pleased to invite you to the inauguration of the gallery's second venue, PLAYLIST, which will open with the exhibition "Fiori di Maggio a Febbraio" ("Flowers of May in February"), the third solo show of Argentinian artist Pablo Candiloro.

"What happens is that on the one hand, I had begun to work in a precise, wide, and luminous space, but at the same time the frame of the world outside revealed a scenario completely taken with incessant oscillations and cracks in the structures of its meaning." By placing at the center of his interest two fundamental aspects of painting that are often undisputed, namely the smooth, perfect white base of the canvas and the blended colors left in the margins of the palette, Pablo Candiloro (Buenos Aires, 1976) tells us about a winter garden in which the lost patches of colors become flowers. The human figure, often present in previous series, this time does not appear except veiled and with other compositional elements. The artist's aura seems to transpire from a sequence of solitary sunflowers or a flock of birds in an attempt to sing and fly in a flurry of cracks.
